

Experience the Healing Voice of Dr. Kenneth Fine aka Kenny Davin Fine A 'Physician-Musician on a Mission'

Dr. Kenneth Fine is an academic medical doctor, board certified in internal medicine and gastroenterology, and internationally recognized for his nutritional research and scientific publications (intestinalhealth.org/CV). He has been professionally involved in patient care, medical research, teaching, directing clinical laboratories, nutritional pioneering, and public health for over 25 years. Having been a professor his entire working life, in the year 2000, he converted his successful academic medical career into a public service enterprise to foster his professional passions for teaching and helping people. It was then that he founded, and he still directs EnteroLab.com clinical reference laboratory and the non-profit Intestinal Health Institute in Dallas, Texas (www.intestinalhealth.org), where he has furthered his ground-breaking research and offers diagnostic laboratory tests for intestinal disorders, and gluten and other food sensitivities.

In his musical persona, Kenny Davin Fine is a passionate singer-songwriter, guitar-harmonica player, and spiritual journeyman who entertains, educates, and enlightens with his original, professionally-recorded music. Combining lyrical mastery, vocal smoothness, and the musical sounds of classic rock, country rock, and blues, Kenny has created a sound noteworthy for both its ear-friendliness and its spirit-touching quality. His current music release recorded in Memphis, TN called “Memphis Rising” consists of what he calls “Rock ‘n Blues... For Goodness’ Sake!”

Along with his achievements as a musician and prolific tunesmith, the good doctor is also a wonderful performer. He showcases his “Healing Voice” in both his live musical shows and his awe-inspiring lectures. He is the country's only "Physician-Musician on a Mission" (www.kennydavinfine.com).

Travelling the country “Speaking and Singing for Your Health, Happiness, and Hope” is his mission. As such, Fine uses the stage not only to educate the public about his scientific breakthroughs or the importance of proper diet and nutrition for overall health, but also shares his philosophies on physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual well-being in what he calls “The Higher Truth of Health.” His trademark “musical lecture” is truly Singing for Healing! It’s a unique combination of original wisdom and music imparting what he acronymizes as GLITCH (goodness, love, inspiration, truth, creativity, and healing) with the perfect balance of information and the healing power of music.

As child-friendly "Dr. Ken the Produce Man", Dr. Fine has authored a multimedia musical children's health and nutritional program called "Get on a Mission of Nutrition" (GOAMON.org) to address childhood obesity, and impart overall health, and positive attitude and values in kids.

More on the Healing Voice

For as long as there have been healers, sound and song have played a role in the art of healing. Ancient medicine men/women and shaman used rattles, drums, and non-melodic chanting in the most primordial applications. Vocal melodic chanting and song eventually found their way into both spiritual and healing institutions, their presence having been noted for as long as human civilization has kept records.

Recently, there has been a re-emergence of sound healing techniques, commonly employing pure vibrational tones such as those generated by pitch forks or striking crystal bowls. Additionally, however, the human voice, with or without musical instrumentation, also has found its place as a formal healing modality in the modern medical environment; individuals utilizing vocal or non-vocal music in this way are usually called therapeutic musicians or sometimes certified music practitioners. A harpist playing a harp in a hospice facility or at the bedside in a bone marrow transplant unit would be an example of this practice. As a high-minded, medical visionary, Kenny Davin Fine, M.D., is looking to revolutionize and re-expand music's therapeutic application, utilizing his healing voice and message as yet another of his many professional avenues directed at public health, happiness, and hope.

Via his pedigree, Kenny is connected to an ancient tradition of sacred vocal practice – he has carried on the tradition of the long line of synagogue Cantors having existed on both sides of his family. Realizing that his voice singing his original songs in concerts and/or musical lectures is as sacred and healing as his voice Cantoring (same person, same voice), Kenny has matriculated the spiritual energy of the timeless with a more modern message and sound for his musical healing message.

At the precocious age of 17, Kenny Davin Fine entered medical school out of high school. Since that time, he has been a healer and a leader in all walks of his life, inspiring creativity, goodness, love and health in all he meets and serves. It only makes sense then that his passionate pursuit of public singing, first as a synagogue Cantor and then as a singer-songwriter, would also be motivated by his core healing qualities. Learning from studying Kabbalah that the roots of creativity and healing are one in the same, Kenny, a self-described “Physician Musician on a Mission”, has combined the Spirit of creation with the healing sound of his voice and music, and has set them on a grass roots path to heal himself, help heal the planet, and help heal you!

Kenny Davin Fine - Inspiring and Spreading Goodness - One Song at a Time The Circle of Life - A Musical Journey to Goodness... For Goodness' Sake!

Psalms 34:15 Turn from evil and do Good, seek amity and pursue it. "Goodness is the only investment that never fails" ~ HD Thoreau

"Be the Circle" is a creative public service outreach founded by physician-musician Kenny Davin Fine for the purpose of inspiring and spreading Goodness... for Goodness' sake! Inspired by the lyrics "The Circle of Life... There's No Time to Waste" from his original song released in 2010 on his "All is One" Indie music CD, and a desire to pave a path for his "healing voice" to reach more people, Fine hopes to lead more people to a purposeful and successful life for the greater good, utilizing his music and what he calls "Eleven Points of Light". As can be seen in the figure there are five points within bringing six points of Goodness out. His mission of public service has always been to serve "For Your Health, Happiness and Hope!" "Be the Circle" adds a new dimension to his unique brand of service.

The catch phrases Dr. Fine applies to this new phase of his mission are:

1. If there is a Circle of Life, and there's No Time to Waste, then Be the Circle!
2. Lend a helping hand
3. I got your back (help and support those in need according to the Golden Rule)
4. Pay it forward
5. What goes around comes around

It is Dr. Fine's belief that we should exist in this world in a service mode to others for several reasons: to do G-d's bidding for a more successful purposeful life; for the purpose of healing ourselves and each other; to be the hands of creation for G-d; and ultimately to help bring our current earthly existence to its next higher plane of evolution. Service work, according to Dr. Fine, can be seen as "Love in Action". In order to shun the evil that exists in this world, we must, as the Psalms tell us, Do Good! "My service work is in the name of G-d and Goodness, to help bring people to the Goodness of G-d, and to serve people with my G-d given talent and creativity..., all 'For Goodness' Sake'. In this regard, it is my mission to share and inspire a GLITCH (goodness/gratitude, love, inspiration, truth, creativity, and healing) in as many lives as is possible, and to recruit other Spiritual Warriors to help in this fight for Goodness." Kenny is asking all of us to "Be the Circle"!
